

Chris Finney Bio as of 5/11/23

Chris is married to his wife, Christine. They have five(5) kids. Chris has been practicing for the better part of the last decade. He began as a prosecuting attorney, moved to a defense job, and then to plaintiff's work. He was introduced to the work by his dad, whom he practiced with for a few years.

He has tried 30 jury trials to verdict. Some are losses, and some are wins. His firm, Finney Injury Law, consists of 3 attorneys and 4 supportive team members. The firm is based out of St. Louis, MO, where they work to try 5 -7 cases per year. He has been lucky enough to have some very good clients who trusted his advice to go to trial when faced with very low offers. As a result, Chris and his team have received 7-figure and multi-7-figure results as well as an 8-figure result he recently co-tried with his cousins.

Chris enjoys trial practice and the effort it requires. He enjoys trying cases in teams as the group approach leads to some powerful results. He loves the freedom of the practice but dislikes a lot of the red tape and rules. He constantly tries to refine his speaking and persuasion skills and looks forward to learning opportunities.
